LAST NIGHT'S NEWS.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECO. RD-UNION. DOMESTIC.

Congress this Week. Washington, June 6th.-In the House of Representatives the week will open, after the usual influx of bills, to-mer, ow, with action upon motions to suspend the rules to pass various bills making appropriations for the erection of public baildings. It was intended to call up the legis lative, executive and judicial appropriation bill Tuesday morning but it is now proba-ble that its conductors will voluntarily allow a vote to be first taken on the Pacific Railroad extension bill, which comes over as unfinished business from last week. It s probable that the House will be fully occupied with the legislative bill during secupied with the legislative bill during the remainder of the week, but if any time should remain after its passage, Herbert will ask the House to consider the naval appropriation bill. The measures which are thought to be probable subjects of discussion in the Senate during the coming week can be definitely stated, but the order of their coming up is not yet finally settled. of their coming up is not yet finally settled. There is likely to be a contest over the oleomargarine bill between Senator Miller, as Chairman of the Committee on Agri-culture, to which the Senatz bills and petiions of this subject have been referred and Senator Morrell, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, which committee claims jurisdiction of the House bill, on the jurisdiction of the House bill, on the ground that it is a revenue measure. The report of the Senate conferees of a failure to agree with those of the House in respect to the Senate amendments to the postoffice appropriations bill is expected to give rise to an interesting debate, the controversy being chiefly upon the so-called subsidy features. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, which is unfinished business of the Senate, will be disposed of and the Appropriations will be disposed of, and the Appropriations Committee expect to report and bring up for action during the week the agriculture and navy appropriation bills. The Northern Pacific forfeiture bill and the bill repealing the pre-emption and timber culture laws are the usual orders for the days already passed, and by virtue of this fact are entitled to consideration before any large brick buildings were consumed with their entire contents, embracing a larg other measures, except the appropriation bills, on the calendar. Should there be any amount of finished stock and valuable machinery. The loss is about $150,000 and time consumed in the discussion of the measures above named, it is expected that the House bill to forfeit certain lands granted to the States of Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana, to aid in the construction of railroads, and Senator Hoar's of the fire is unknown. bill to provide for inquests under national authority, will be called up. MAXWELL FOUND GUILTY.

Preller's Slayer Convicted of Murder in the First Degree.

Sr. Louis, June 5th .- When the jury in the Maxwell case returned last night to the jury-room Martin S. Barnett was chosen Jury-room Martin S. Barnett was chosen foreman and Davis S. Childs secretary. Barnett was supposed by many to be the one who favored the defendant more than any other juror, and when the first ballot was taken this belief was partially confirmed, for he was among the three who did not vote for conviction. A second ballot was taken after some discussion, which resulted in bringing Expect over to ever the resulted in bringing Earnett over to con-viction, and ten to two for conviction was announced as the vote. The succeeding ballots up to the time for adjournment were identical with the latter, with no jury were not unanimous. The first ballot-taken this morning showed the fact that one more had decided upon conviction.

About moon the jury proceeded to take another ballot, after having argued with the obstinate member. The ballots were collected and counted by the forenian, who found that there was inscribed upon each the word." Guilty." The deputy-was summoned, and he was told that the jury had a communication to make to the Court. The Sheriff took the twelve men in charge and led them to their seats, where they re-main standing while the foreman, from a slip of paper, read: "We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty of murder in the first de-gree, as set forth in the indictment."

The prisoner sat in his accustomed place etween his attorneys. As the noon hour approached and no communication was received from the jury, his hopefulness seemed to increase, for he knew that should the jury hang, much greater were his chances for a new trial. When the an-nouncement was made, however, that the jury wished to report, and they were brought into Court, he turned nervously in his chair to scan their countenances. He found no sign of encouragement there, and when the verdict was read his face blanche and his eyes sought the floor, where the remained fixed. The jury were polled and each assented to the verdict, after which the Judge dismissed them. The prisoner was taken to his cell, where he will await the result of the motion for a new trial, which will be made upon the grounds of incompetency of the prosecution's witnesses and errors of the Judge in his instructions

By Telegraph.] Washington, June 5th.—The ordering of the vessels of the North Atlantic squadron to Portland, Me., does not have the warlike significance that might be supposed. Commodore Walker, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, said to-day that the orders thus far issued contemplate little, if anything, beyond the customary spring cruise of the fleet through the northern waters. "At the same time," he added, "although the situation is not so grave as to create appre-hension and the circumstances do not, in my judgment, indicate serious trouble, we intend to have vessels conveniently at hand in ease we should find use for them, to protect the interests of the United States Gov ernment or the rights of its citizens. We believe the presence of the fleet will have a beneficial effect and will tend to quiet the disturbances that have arisen. AN ALARMED JURY. Jury at Seattle is altogether a remarkable document. The jury asserts upon its official oath that it has evidence of a regularly organized body of men with headquarters in San Francisco, the purposes and aims of which are to burn, pillage and destroy. This body has branches, says the jury, extending jurisdiction throughout the country so that the whole land is affected by it. Its principles, if we can dignify crime by such a word, are essentially Anarchist, and its ultimate hope is to overthrow the Government, and set up in its stead the rule of human passion and desire, under the the control of the Knights of Labor, and astray in its conclusions, and that it has The main body of the traitors hey must be brought by degrees to but innocently, to the ulteinfluence underlaid all the pose is to burn all books in which are kept the evidences of title to property. We need, in the meanwhile, to cultivate the patriotic spirit, and enlarge the understanding of the rising generation concerning the genesis, purposes and system of our Government; we must see to it that heresy against the theory and practice of self-government does not poison the minds of our children. We need to do our duties more faithfully as citizens; have larger measure of respect for the rights of others, and to grant to our neighbor every right we claim for ourselves. We need to draw nearer to the charter of our liberties, and study to better purpose the substructure of the Government, the fountain and spring of our rights. Result of a Still Hunt.

EDS. RECORD-UNION: Allow me to say a word in relation to the action of the Board of Health on Saturday night in the matter of nominating a candidate for Health Officer. Having been one of the several applicants for the place who were ignored in this matter, I feel that I have a right to b heard. For nearly nineteen years I have resided in Sacramento. I have contributed my share in taxes during that time toward the support of the local government. All the product of my labor in these years has been expended in Sacramento. I have acquired some little property here, and to that extent have contributed directly toward the building up of the city, and the extension of its homes. In all these years it has been my province—as well a my pleasure—to labor with the outsid world for the general welfare of Sacramento and her citizens. These remarks will ap ply with some, if not equal, force to the cases of several other gentlemen who were applicants for the position referred to; and yet we find the Board of Health utterly ig oring claims like these and going on "still hunt" for some comparative strange -who had never been identified with th interests of the city—upon whom to thrus the emoluments of this little local office which any man in the possession of sense could easily fill. However I do no see how considerations of the kind first mentioned could be expected to actuate an member of the Board who has not himse cast a quarter of a dozen votes in the city I have seen in the handwriting of on SNOWFLAKES VS. BRIGHTONS.

GENERAL NOTICES.

Cream and Cold Weather. What a luxury is a bath in summer. Surely, but a greater luxury is a clear head in winter, just when almost everybody is sneezing and smuffling with a cold in the head. When you are attacked use Ely's Cream Balm. It cures colds in the head, and what is better, it cures the worst cases of Chronic Catarrh and Hay Fever. Not a liquid, not a snuif. Pleasant to use. Quick relief. Radical cure. d7-lyMWF

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's SCOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once: it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoa, whether arising from teething or other causes. City Board of Health.

A meeting of the City Board of Health was held Saturday evening at the office of the President, Dr. Laine. Prior to the meeting a capers was held in an adjoining. the President, Dr. Laine. Prior to the meeting a caucus was held in an adjoining room relative to the Health Officer, and it is said that after exhausting other methods to agree, it was decided to toss up a piece of coin, and thus it was settled. When the meeting opened formally, Dr. Nichols read the report of the Superintendent of the City Cemetery, which showed twenty-seven deaths for May.

Health Officer Ferral reported that during the month of May he had examined 208 nuisances.

In Motor Henduship Cals and Caledonic and Caledonic and a reunion of one is incomplete without the attendance of the other. At an early hour the people began to go to the grove from the city, and every manner of conveyance was brought into requisition to carry the hundreds to and from the picnic. The street car manage ment was excellent, every available car was put upon the road; they ran with much regularity, and carried their cars full all day without accident. The grounds were in excellent condition, the day devented the proposition of the party steamer Thomas Domain and Caledonic and a reunion of one is incomplete without the attendance of the other. The grounds were in excellent condition, the day de-matter, and the Board promised to sustain his action.

The President then announced that the election of a Health Officer was in order. Drs. Laine, Snider and Nichols voted for Dr. F. L. Athinson, and Drs. Clow and Brune for Henry Longton. Dr. Atkinson was declared elected. [He is a young man a graduate of Rush Medical College, Chicago, not long a resident in the city—some fifteen months. Summer Has Come.

Calendar proves it; so does the Stir and Activity of our Warm Weather Trade. The Vim, Force, Energy displayed in the movement of Summer Goods here are Unmistakable. They mean that we are Completely Equipped with Everything Desirable, and that People WANT what we have. It is not a Feast at which there are No Guests.

Such Steady and Unswerving Trade from morning till night, week in and week out, is one of the Strongest Arguments Possible in favor of our Stores-for there is nothing to bind People here but the Dictates of their own judgment. There is no reason why so many Hundreds of Customers come to us daily to be served except there is Sound Logic in their so doing.

The Strongest Convictions are those based on Experience. People Know our Styles are Fresh; People Know our Prices are Right. And so, as Experience Teaches, Trade Compounds and Multiplies!

These are indeed Strong Words. Are they not True Words!

minzin volunteered no information as to the cause of his presence so far from his ranch during the busy harvest season, and was not questioned. He did say that the hostiles had no knowledge of that part of country, as that was his country. Mr. Crowley was tempted to look into the wagon, but the unprotected condition of his family on an isolated ranch caused him to abandon the certainty of occurring the displeasure of the old chieftain. It is also a fact that Frank Murphy, foreman of the Redington Cattle Company, while hunting stock in the mountains on Monday, above the place mentioned, suddenly came upon Eskiminzin, who did not seem to be hunting game, but was aimlessly wandering about, a circunstance of no consequence, excepting to prove the direction taken by Eskiminzin and his men. The whole thing was so unusual that Mr. Crowley's suspitions were aroused upon a retrospective view of it.

The ex-chief, who has probably shed more human blood than any living Apache, now, in his old age and inability to take the warpath. has applied himself ostensibly to the cultivation of the soil and stock raising, close to the settlements and to the reservation; but that he should leave his field at harvest time, the busiest season of the entire year, when his person of the year, when to the reservation; but that he should leave his field at harvest time, the busiest season of the entire year, when his personal direction of ranch affairs is almost indispensable, to go into the mountains, a day's journey away, where but little or no game exists, would seem, under the circumstances, proof conclusive of his connivance with the hostiles in their carnival of rapine and murder. On Sunday, May 30th, the hostiles' trail showed that they were about Bunker Hillor Table mountains, in the north end of Galuiria mountains, not far from Arivaipa creek and the reservation, and only twenty miles from Eskiminzin's. They were there joined by the difference of the reservation, and only twenty miles from Eskiminzin's. They were there joined by the difference of the reservation and secrety.

The northern end of the Galuiria mountains is a very rough country, and affords many natural strongholds and secure places of hiding. It is uninhabited, and the hostiles might congregate there in large numbers and not be discovered for months unless a chance prospector should accidentally run upon them, and then his life would pay the forfeit. It lies a little would would pay the forfeit with the passes a little would pay the forfeit. It lie accidentally run upon them, and then his life would pay the forfeit. It lies a little north of west from Camp Grant, and can be safely reached by the hostiles coming from any direction. The circumstances all point to the probable rendezvous of the hostiles there, and that they are aided by Eskiminzin to prepare for a continuance of their raid as soon as everything is favor able for them to strike.

the mountains, from the direction in which the hostiles were then supposed to be, and joined the campers. Eskiminzin had his belt full of cartridges when he arrived. Early next morning, when Mr. Crowley got up, and he is a very early riser, all the bucks were gone. He saw them return in the evening about sundown, and Eskiminzin's belt then contained only five cartridges, and they brought no game. On Monday morning he saw them all leave camp with full belts of cartridges and go into the mountains in the direction in which the hostiles were supposed to be, but he did not witness their return, and does not know whether they brought back the cartridges or not, but they had no game. TUCSON (A. T.), June 5th.—J. A. Crowley, a cattleman having a ranch on the San Pedro, eight miles below Redington, who came to this city to-day, makes the following remarkable statement, showing almost conclusively the treachery of the state of the old Chief Eskiminzin, who has long been suspected of secretly aiding the hostiles by suspected of secretly aiding the hostiles by supplying them with arms and ammunition. Mr. Crowley is thoroughly reliable and worthy of the most implicit confidence. On Saturday, May 29th, about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, Eskiminzin, with a buck and two squaws, driving a team with a farm wagon, came to Mr. Crowley's ranch from down the river. Eskiminzin lives about thirty miles below, between Dudley-ville and Messyille not far from the mouth ville and Mesaville, not far from the mouth of Arivaipa creek and close to the corner of the reservation. The Indians camped at his ranch three nights. The night of the arrival two more bucks came down from the mountains, from the direction in which
